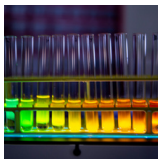
UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

Interprofessional Continuing Education Upcoming 2026 - 2027 Courses



December 7-8, 2026 Current Concepts in Medication Therapy 2026
(Virtual) Primary care providers manage an ever-expanding range of medications and increasingly complex regimens in a rapidly evolving landscape. This case-based IPCE course equips clinicians with practical updates on new medications, indications, safety concerns, and interactions through expert-led presentations and interactive panel discussions.

January 28-29, 2027 12th Annual Men's Health Update
(In-Person) Men's health is a specialized and rapidly evolving field, with ongoing advances in diagnostics, medications, and surgical technologies. This program brings together expert faculty to provide up-to-date guidance on the diagnosis and management of key urologic and men's health conditions, including prostate disease, hormonal disorders, urinary dysfunction, sexual health, infertility, and genital pain, with opportunities for interactive Q&A sessions.

March 11-12, 2027 Endocrinology and Diabetes Update for Primary Care 2027
(In-Person) This is a comprehensive two-day course on endocrinology and diabetes geared towards primary care providers. There is an immense need for education as the incidence of diabetes and endocrinology disorders in the general population, and primary care clinics carry the major burden of these patients. Didactic lectures offered in this program will provide the latest information on current topics related to diabetes, endocrinology, and guideline updates.

March 25-26, 2027 23rd Annual Reproductive & Gynecology Health Updates
(Hybrid) This annual conference provides a timely clinical update for providers caring for women+ in outpatient settings. Topics are selected based on attendee feedback, emerging evidence, and areas of controversy, ensuring relevance and practical application. Sessions cover reproductive and gynecologic health, nutrition strategies for cancer prevention, inclusive gender-affirming care, and navigating systemic barriers to access.

April 22, 2027 UW ASPirE 2027
(Hybrid) This hybrid conference explores the prevention, recognition, and management of immune-related adverse events associated with cancer immunotherapies. Through expert-led presentations, panel discussions, and case-based learning, participants will gain practical strategies for diagnosing and treating immunotherapy-related toxicities. Attendees will also learn about emerging research, advances in patient monitoring, and collaborative approaches to improving outcomes for patients receiving cancer immunotherapy.

April 23, 2027 26th Annual Clinical Cardiology Pearls for Primary Care
(Virtual) This course for primary care providers delivers practical, up-to-date guidance on common cardiovascular diseases through case-based, interactive lectures led by University of Washington faculty. It reviews current guidelines for conditions such as hypertension, cholesterol management, atrial fibrillation, heart failure, and coronary artery disease, while also addressing topics like anticoagulant use and appropriate cardiovascular imaging.

June 24-25, 2027 21st Update: Travel Medicine and Global Health
(Hybrid) This comprehensive two-day hybrid conference will provide an update and review of key topics in travel medicine and global health, with a special focus on the prevention, diagnosis, and management of travel-related illnesses, emerging infectious diseases, and antimicrobial resistance. Content will be presented by leading experts in travel medicine, global health, and infectious diseases.

July 21-23, 2027 Current Concepts in Pulmonary, Critical Care, and Sleep Medicine
(In-Person) This in-person CME course provides a practical review of the latest advances and evidence-based approaches in pulmonary, critical care, and sleep medicine. Through expert-led lectures, interactive discussions, and hands-on learning sessions, participants will gain actionable insights into topics such as advanced asthma care, pulmonary hypertension, refractory shock, neuroprognostication, and sleep apnea beyond CPAP. Participants will leave with practical skills and updated knowledge they can apply immediately to patient care.

October 5-8, 2027 55th Annual Advances in Family Medicine and Primary Care
(Hybrid) The material presented will allow participants to acquire new information as well as review information important to building and maintaining skills valuable for the primary care provider. This course is designed for family physicians, and other primary care providers including internists, pediatricians, osteopathic physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, and others interested in primary care.

October 2027 18th Annual Comprehensive Hematology & Oncology Review Course
(In-Person) This comprehensive program features 55 topics covering the latest evidence behind guidelines, recommendations, and therapeutic advances for solid tumors and hematologic disorders. Participants will gain a strong understanding of disease pathogenesis, diagnosis, and treatment, while also benefiting from a valuable resource for certifying and re-certifying exam preparation.
