

September 8-12, 2025 53rd Annual Advances in Family Medicine and Primary Care
(Hybrid) For the 53rd year, the University of Washington's Department of Family Medicine offers a course covering various disciplines, including cardiology, endocrinology, and dermatology. Participants will acquire new information, review essential skills, and engage in hands-on learning. Designed for family physicians and other primary care providers, the course includes evidence-based guidelines from recent studies and professional organizations.

October 6-10, 2025 16th Annual Comprehensive Hematology & Oncology Review Course
(In-Person) An in-depth, 54-topic curriculum covering the latest clinical guidelines, diagnostic strategies, and therapeutic advances in hematologic and solid tumor malignancies. Designed for physicians, fellows, and advanced practice providers, the course supports board certification preparation and clinical practice updates. Attendees will gain actionable knowledge to integrate evidence-based treatments and emerging innovations into personalized patient care.

October 16-17, 2025 Updates in Hospital Medicine

(Virtual) This course is directed toward hospital medicine physicians, ARNPs, and PAs. The purpose of the course is to update the skills of inpatient providers with a focus on common problems in clinical care. The format consists of brief, directed live or video presentations followed by discussions where participants will be able to ask the presenters questions.

October 18, 2025 Lead Management Symposium

(In-Person) The Annual Lead Management Update Symposium offers an up-to-date review of cardiac implantable electronic device lead management. It covers indications for lead extraction, clinical decision-making for CIED infections or malfunctions, and available tools and technology. Experts will discuss cases and educational goals through didactic sessions.

November 8, 2025 2nd Interstitial Lung Disease Summit for Primary Care

(In-Person) This in-person summit is designed to educate primary care providers on managing interstitial lung diseases (ILD), with patients, family members, and caretakers also invited. ILDs are a complex group of non-infectious lung diseases with over 200 causes, including autoimmune, genetic, and environmental factors. Idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis (IPF), a type of ILD, has a poor prognosis with a median survival of 3-5 years, and delays in diagnosis can worsen outcomes.

January 30-31, 2026 11th Annual Men's Health Update

(In-Person) An internationally acclaimed faculty has been assembled to provide this update, with presentations on topics such as prostate screening and treatment, testosterone deficiency and the controversy of testosterone replacement, male urinary dysfunction, kidney and bladder pathology, sexual dysfunction, male infertility and the changing influence of marijuana, and genital pain syndromes.

February 7, 2026 3rd Annual Seattle Sudden Cardiac Death Symposium

(In-Person) This course is tailored for a cardiac electrophysiology, cardiology, internist, emergency medicine and first responder audience and is intended to provide practical, up-to-date information on sudden cardiac death risk assessment and management. World-class faculty from the University of Washington School of Medicine will teach participants using lectures and an audience response system to encourage interactive dialogue.

March 12-13, 2025 Diabetes Update for Primary Care 2026

(In-Person) This is a comprehensive two-day course on diabetes geared towards primary care providers. There is an immense need for education as the incidence of diabetes in the general population, and primary care clinics carry the major burden of these patients. Didactic lectures offered in this program will provide the latest information on current topics related to diabetes and guideline updates.
