Meeting the Challenge of Chronic Pain Management in the Primary Care Setting
November 7-8, 2014

WHO SHOULD ATTEND
Primary care and other specialty providers who provide care to patients with chronic non-malignant pain including but not limited to: Rehabilitation Medicine, Psychiatry, Internal Medicine, Neurology, Family Practice, Internal Medicine and associated allied health professionals (including RN, ARNP, PAC, NP)

COURSE DESCRIPTION
Management of the chronic pain patient requires knowledge of many fields of medicine, of pharmacology and the application of communication skills. This course provides information that will be applicable specifically for the front line, primary care provider in day-to-day practice. Several common disease states will be presented with focus on primary care investigation and management. Plan formulation will be facilitated by discussion of medical stability, radiographic imaging and utilizing the standard, short appointment time. Challenging topics including urine drug testing, approaches to aberrant behavior, cannabinoids and weaning of opioid medications will be presented. Pharmacological discussions will include antidepressant, headache and neuropathic medications. Improvement of interactions will focus on the angry and unengaged patient through lecture and case presentations.

Case Presentations: During the lunch hour, an optional case discussion session will be led by speakers.

COURSE OBJECTIVES
Upon completion of this activity, attendees should be able to:

- Manage aberrant behavior in the chronic pain patient
- Organize an incipient, rational opioid weaning strategy
- Describe the evidence regarding medical use of marijuana
- Better differentiate between addiction and opioid dependence in the primary care population

ACCREDITATION
Accreditation with Commendation
The University of Washington School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation
The University of Washington School of Medicine designates this live activity for a maximum of 11.75 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
