

EN2106(A) 13th Annual John D. Loeser Pain Conference: Chronic Pain from Disease, Injury and Other Life Traumas: Identification, Prevention, and Management
Enduring Material
University of Washington School of Medicine

Accessing the Online Content

If you are continuing immediately after you are registered, you will need to refresh your browser. This will allow the content to display. (If you are logging out, the educational content will display the next time you login.)*

1. For general activity information, please click here: EN2106A Pain Online Content
2. Read the information found on the overview page prior to starting the education modules.
 - a. Review the "Speaker Disclosure Summary" hyperlink
3. To access the online content, navigate to "Online Courses" using the navigation bar at the top of your screen after you have logged in.
4. Select the blue "Registered" button for activity ID "EN2106A".
5. Click "Tests"
6. You may choose to watch the recorded lectures in any order. To watch the video, click "Launch Video"
7. To view the combined PDF of the slides, scroll to the bottom and click "View Document"

Evaluation

In order to receive CME credit, a completed evaluation is required.

1. Navigate to "MyCME" and select "TESTS" from the menu.
2. Select the blue "Ready for Eval" button to complete the activity.
 - a. This step is required to activate the evaluation.
3. Navigate to "MyCME" and select "Evaluations & Certificates" from the main page.
4. Select the blue "Evaluation" button.

CME Certificate

1. Your certificate will automatically display after you submit your evaluation for you to print and/or download. You can also access your certificate/transcript any time thereafter following these steps:
 - a. Click MyCME
 - b. Click "Evaluations and Certificates"

Minimum Browser Requirements

Chrome version 70.0 or newer | Firefox version 63.0 or newer
Internet Explorer version 11.0 or newer | Safari version 12.0 or newer